1 Introduction

The bibleref package was designed to provide consistent formatting for referencing parts of the bible.

`\bibleverse` The command :

`\bibleverse{⟨book title⟩}(⟨chapter⟩:⟨verse(s)⟩)...(⟨chapter⟩:⟨verse(s)⟩)` can be used to cite a bible book, chapter or verse or range of chapters or verses.

The book title, `⟨book title⟩`, may be given either as the full title (e.g. `Matthew`) or as an abbreviation (e.g. `Mt` or `Matt`), most standard abbreviations are recognised. Books with multiple parts should be preceded by the book number in uppercase roman numerals. For example, the second book of Kings should be entered as `\bibleverse{IIKings}`

You may have any number, or zero, sets of parenthesis `(⟨chapter⟩:⟨verse(s)⟩)`, indicating the chapter and verse or verses. Verses can be specified as a comma separated list of individual verses or range of verses. A range of verses should be written with a single hyphen, e.g. `2-4`. In the typeset output the verses will be separated with `\BRvsep` (an en-dash by default.) A chapter may be referenced without a verse, but the colon must remain, e.g. `(12:)` simply indicates chapter 12.

A range of verses spanning more than one chapter can be entered as `(⟨ch⟩:⟨v⟩)-(⟨ch⟩:⟨v⟩)`

Examples:

<code>\bibleverse{Ex}</code>	Exodus
<code>\bibleverse{Exodus}(20:)</code>	Exodus 20
<code>\bibleverse{Exod}(20:17)</code>	Exodus 20:17
<code>\bibleverse{IICo}(12:21)</code>	2 Corinthians 12:21
<code>\bibleverse{IICor}(12:21–32)</code>	2 Corinthians 12:21–32
<code>\bibleverse{Ex}(20:17)(21:3)</code>	Exodus 20:17;21:3
<code>\bibleverse{Ex}(15:)(17:)(20:)</code>	Exodus 15;17;20
<code>\bibleverse{Rev}(1:2,5,7–9,11)</code>	Revelation 1:2,5,7–9,11
<code>\bibleverse{IChronicles}(1:3)–(2:7)</code>	1 Chronicles 1:3–2:7

The style of the reference can be specified either by package option or as the `\biblerefstyle` argument to the command `\biblerefstyle{<style>}`. Styles are listed in Table 1.

Table 1: Bible Citation Styles (can be used as package option or in the argument to `\biblerefstyle`)

Style	Example
default	2 Corinthians 12:1–5
jerusalem	2 Co 12:1–5
anglosaxon	II Cor. XII.1–5
JEH	2 Cor. xii. 1–5
NTG	2 Cor xii,1–5
MLA	2 Cor. xii.1–5
chicago	2 Cor. xii:1–5
text	Second Epistle to the Corinthians, chapter twelve verse one to five `\setbooktitle` You can change the name of a book using `\setbooktitle{<name>}{<new title>}`. Note that `<name>` must be the full name, not the abbreviated name of the book. For example, to change Revelation to Apoc, do `\setbookname{Revelation}{Apoc}` (Note that you shouldn't do `\setbookname{Rev}{Apoc}`)

2 Defining New Styles

`\newbiblerefstyle` You can define a new style using the command `\newbiblerefstyle{<style-name>}{<commands>}` where `<commands>` are the commands needed to modify the citation style.

Example: This new style is based on the ‘default’ style, but has verses in lower case Roman numerals, and redefines “Revelation” as “Apocalypse”.

\newbiblerefstyle{sample}{%
\biblerefstyle{default}%
\renewcommand{\BRversestyle}[1]{\romannumeral##1}%
\setbooktitle{Revelation}{Apocalypse}%
```

Note the use of `##1` instead of `#1`.

5 The Code

1 <(*bibleref.sty)

Declare package
2 \NeedsTeXFormat{LaTeX2e}
3 \ProvidesPackage{bibleref}[2005/09/28 1.02 (NLCT)]

Need to do some conditional stuff
4 \RequirePackage{ifthen}

The fntcount package is needed for the full text citations
5 \RequirePackage{fntcount}

\BRbooknumberstyle \BRbooknumberstyle is the style of the book number. By default, it simply displays its argument followed by a space.
6 \newcommand*{\BRbooknumberstyle}[1]{#1 }

As above, but for epistle.
7 \newcommand*{\BRepistlenumberstyle}[1]{#1 }

\BRbookof \BRbookof is text to go before the book title. This by default is nothing, but can be changed to, e.g., "The book of "
8 \newcommand*{\BRbookof}{ }

\BRgospel \BRgospel: as above but for gospels
9 \newcommand*{\BRgospel}{ }

\BRepistleto \BRepistleto: as above but for epistles to someone.
10 \newcommand*{\BRepistleto}{ }

\BRepistletothe \BRepistletothe: as above but for epistles to people.
11 \newcommand*{\BRepistletothe}{ }

\BRepistleof \BRepistleof: as above but for "epistles of"
12 \newcommand*{\BRepistleof}{ }

\BRbooktitlestyle \BRbooktitlestyle is the style of the book title. By default, it simply displays its argument.
13 \newcommand*{\BRbooktitlestyle}[1]{#1}

\BRchapterstyle \BRchapterstyle is the style of the chapter number. By default it simply displays its argument.
14 \newcommand*{\BRchapterstyle}[1]{#1}
```

`\BRversestyle` `\BRversestyle` is the style of the verse number. By default is simply displays its argument.

15 `\newcommand*{\BRversestyle}[1]{#1}`

`\BRbkchsep` `\BRbkchsep` is the separator between the book title and the chapter number

16 `\newcommand*{\BRbkchsep}{ }`

`\BRchvsep` `\BRchvsep` is the separator between chapter and verse numbers. By default this is simply a colon.

17 `\newcommand*{\BRchvsep}{:}`

`\BRchsep` `\BRchsep` is the separator between multiple chapters. By default this is simply a semi-colon.

18 `\newcommand*{\BRchsep}{;}`

`\BRvrsep` `\BRvrsep` is the separator between the beginning and ending of a range of verses. By default this is simply an en-dash.

19 `\newcommand*{\BRvrsep}{--}`

`\BRvsep` `\BRvsep` is the separator between a list of verses.

20 `\newcommand*{\BRvsep}{,}`

`\BRperiod` can be redefined to put a full stop after book names.

21 `\newcommand*{\BRperiod}{.}`

`\brfullname` The command `\brfullname` will switch to using the full book title.

750 \section{Text Style}
751 This style prints the citation out in full. It's based 752 on 'default', and uses the fmtcount package to convert
753 the numbers into words.

771 \section{New Style}
772
773 This new style is based on the 'default' style, but 774 has verses in lower case Roman numerals, and redefines
775 'Revelation' as 'Apocalypse'.
